CASEY OFFICIALS

HELD OVER ON ASSAULT AND BATTERY CHARGE.

Adair Boys Claim They Were Attacked and Cursed—Officers Say Youths Started the Trouble

Deputy Sheriff Roscoe Brice, Jailer Tom Brown, of Casey county and Town Marshal Sam Raines, of Liberty, were held to the Lincoln county grand jury by County Judge James P. Bailey, on assault and battery charges preferred by Grover Caldwell, an Adair county youth. The bonds of Brice and Raines were fixed at $300 and that of Brown at $150, all of which were given by Sherie J. D. Taylor, of Casey, who came down here with the men for the trial Thursday.

The trials were the outcome of some trouble which occurred at Moreland last Saturday night, when Caldwell, his two brothers and several other Adair county young men came there to take a train for Cincinnati where they expected to find work. They were stretched about on the floor of the depot, waiting for the early morning Sunday excursion. About 10 o'clock, according to Grover Caldwell's testimony, Brice and Raines entered, and began going over the crowd with a searchlight, as if looking for some one. When they came to him, he endeavored to push the light out of his eyes, when, he said, the two men grabbed him, shook him, and bumped him up and down on the floor. He said that he was frightened and endeavored to get up and away from them, and when he got up Raines struck him over the head with his pistol butt, and as he ran out of the door shot at him twice. As he ran across the railroad tracks, he said, that Brown met him and grabbed him, and held him while Raines turned a searchlight on him; and after discovering that he was not the man they were evidently after, cursed him repeatedly, calling him all sorts of vile names. He said Brown offered to go with him to wash the blood off his head, but he was too frightened to go with him.

The youth's testimony was corroborated by his brother, Robert Caldwell, who said that when he endeavored to stop his brother and Raines while they were scuffling, Brice struck him with his fist "like the kick of a mule" as he called it, and knocked him away. He said that his brother ran out, with Raines after him, Brice called to Raines to "kill him, Sam, I am with you." He said that when Raines fired at his brother, Raines the pistol pointed right at the middle of his brother's back and that he knocked his arm up as Raines fired, but that Raines shot the second time, as his brother ran, without interference. Neither of the shots struck Caldwell.

Ed Sexton, another of the Adair county boys, testified to the same effect. All were evidently scared greatly by the treatment they had received, and Grover Caldwell appeared in court with his head bandaged up from the injury he had received. All three men said that the Casey county officers seemed to them to have been drunk.

The three officers, when placed on the stand, said that they had gone to Moreland to catch a man named West, who was wanted for malicious shooting, and that Mr. Brown went to look through the hotels at Moreland, while the other two officers looked over the crowd in the waiting room. All vigorously denied that they were drunk, but each admitted to have taken a drink at Hustonville.

Brice and Raines said that they had passed over many of the men with their flashlight, as they lay on the floor of the depot, but when they came to Caldwell, he pushed the light away and came up fighting. Raines and Brice both said that he struck Raines a blow on the jaw and grabbed him by the hair, and Raines said that as he did this, he pulled his pistol and hit Caldwell over the head. He and Brice both denied that Brice had told him to kill Caldwell as he ran but said that Brice told him to catch him. He said he did not know West, the man they were looking for, but thought Caldwell was West when he began to run, and fired in the air thinking it would stop him. All of the men denied cursing the youths. They waited at Moreland while the Adair county boys came to Stanford after warrants for them. Deputy Sheriff John Moser, of this county, testified that Brown was cursing when they came back with the warrants, and that he made him stop.

The Casey county officers were defended by Attorney George D. Florence, while T. J. Hill, Jr., acted as County Attorney in the absence of County Attorney W. S. Burch, and was assisted by Attorneys P. M. McRoberts and J. N. Menefee, Jr., acting for the Moreland Law and Order League.

Judge Bailey said he thought that the case needed further investigation by the grand jury and held the defendants over. Several of the Adair county youths who were with them, said that it is probable that actions for civil damages will be filed against the Casey officers as a result of the affair.

Tobacco Looks Good

Col. Dunn Says Prices Should Be Up This Winter

Tobacco will be way up this winter according to Col. I. M. Dunn, head of the People's house of Danville, who was here a short while Wednesday en route to the Paul Finch sale at Crab Orchard. Col. Dunn is very optimistic in regard to the outlook, and is urging all who have a good crop of the weed to hold it, for he says, indications are that prices will be the highest in some time.

"The North Carolina market is opening splendidly," said Col. Dunn. "Prices there are just double what they were last year. The South Carolina crop is way short, and everything points to phenomenal figures on the Kentucky breaks when they open. Our market at Danville will open on December 1st, and every tobacco grower who sells his weed at the barn is taking an awful chance on losing a big bunch of money. Every indication is that we are going to have the best market and the best prices in years. We will have buyers on hand from all of the leading companies. The demand for tobacco is growing all the time, and things certainly do look good for the Kentucky grower this fall and winter."

ENGLEMAN HORSE SECOND

A number of his friends at his old home here went to the trots at Lexington Tuesday to see John Engleman's great three-year-old trotter Harrod's Creek start in the $14,000 Kentucky Futurity. While it was not expected that this horse could win, as the greatest three-year-old of this and many other years was entered against him in the speedy mare Volga, Engleman's horse easily took second money which amounted to $3,100. The Lexington Herald said this of Harrod's Creek's performance however: But all of the credit of the race does not belong to Volga, as great as her performance was. Second, the first two heats and making the principal fight in all three of them was Harrod's Creek. Nothing but praise could be heard for the sturdy chestnut that has made such a high class campaign this season. He trotted this race as he has trotted all the season without making mistake or break and reflected great credit on his trainer. He looks like one of the very best stake trotters insight for next year.

A NOVEL APPLE BRANDY CASE
A novel question will come before the Court of Appeals for decision when the case of H. L. Boggs, of Johnson county, indicted for selling liquor without a license and fined $60, reaches the Court. Irvine Jayne, a farmer of Johnson county, took his apples to Boggs's distillery and had them made into brandy, the men sharing equally in the brandy. The question for the Court to decide is whether Boggs is guilty of selling liquor without a license by reason of making brandy out of Jayne's apples and giving him half of the liquor.

W. C. T. U. MEETING

The W. C. T. U. will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 in the lecture room of the Christian church. Mrs. Adelia Woods is the leader. The main part of the program will be the report of the delegates to the recent state convention at Lexington, Sept. 22 to 26. We hope to have a full attendance. Visitors are always welcome. If temperance sentiment is dormant in a town, it is prima facie evidence that "scientific temperance" is being neglected in the schools. Such a community is worthy of double condemnation, for it is faithless not only to its own children but to the welfare of the entire commonwealth.—Contributed.

SALARY IS RAISED

FISCAL COURT INCREASES PAY OF COUNTY ROAD ENGINEER

Mr. Riffe Tells Court He Cannot Afford To Do Work For Less Than $1,400 A Year

At the regular meeting of the Lincoln county fiscal court here Tuesday County Road Engineer J. L. McKee Riffe was re-elected for a term of two years, and his salary was increased from $1,200 to $1,400 a year. This was done by the votes of three members of the court, Squires Helm, Petrey and Camden, Squire Dudderar refusing to vote for it. Mr. Riffe explained to the court that he could not afford to work for the salary he had been receiving, and informed the court that as far as he was concerned, if they could get a man to take the work at the former salary, to do so, but that he could not do so and if they desired him, they would have to pay him a figure he could live on. During the past year, Mr. Riffe was allowed $600 extra for assistance in conducting his department, but none of this sum was expended. The court, in increasing his salary, reduced the sum available for assistance, if such should be needed, to $400, so that the appropriation for the department should not be increased. The magistrates say they are satisfied with the work Mr. Riffe has done.

Reports as to the work under the state-aid pike reconstruction were made. At a previous meeting, the court voted to borrow $6,500 from the Lincoln County National Bank, until the funds available from the state shall have been received, to carry on the road work. The greater part of the Boone Way from Crab Orchard to Danville, has been finished this year, and if good weather continues, for a few weeks longer, it may be possible to finish these two roads this year. All who ride over them concede that no better macadamized roads are to be found anywhere.

TO DECIDE FINALLY ON FAIR

A meeting of the Stanford K. of P.'s will be held on Thursday night, Oct. 19th, at which final action will be taken upon the question of having a fair next year. The matter was reopened at the regular lodge meeting Thursday night, and it was decided to canvass carefully the sentiment of the lodge members and settle the question at the time stated. It is understood that Ed Ballard has agreed to lease the fair grounds to the lodge for another fair if they desire to hold it. Final reports from this year's fair show that the lodge cleared something like $700 from the exhibition, a splendid showing, all concede when it is considered that the first day was rainy and the crowd kept down to the minimum.

TRAIN WRECKER AT WORK

Amos Williams, a negro from somewhere in the south was arrested by Q. & C. detectives J. E. Wallin and Sam Morrow early in the week, and placed in jail here on a charge of endeavoring to wreck a train. A large log was found across the Q. & C. track south of Waynesburg and suspicion pointed to the strange negro who was found in the community. He waived examining trial before County Judge Bailey and was held to await the action of the grand jury under $250 which he was unable to give, so was placed in jail here. The negro denies the charge against him.
